Dry Weather Curtailed Crop of Wild Duck

Every gun in the vicinity was in use early Monday morning and while the scene of action was in every case too far from the town to arouse the citizens from their slumbers, wherever there was water left after the long dry spell there were hunters galore and the air resounded with the sharp explosion of nitro powder. The bulk of the season's opening is usually conducted by those who shoot about one day a year and are out to shoot regardless as to whether the birds are in range or not and mostly puncture atmosphere with their efforts. Some few, however, are experienced and these brought home birds on Monday as usual. The majority were a little less lucky than usual as both water and duck were scarce this season as compared to former years.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

The continuation of shallow tests on both sides of Snake Valley by the Bay-Marland interests would indicate that the geologists are confident that oil will be found somewhere in this vicinity. The Champion well is now down some 2700 feet, meeting difficult caving structure for the greater part of the distance, which has slowed up progress to a considerable extent, but it is assumed this difficulty will be overcome as a greater depth is attained. The well at Eyremore, north-east of Lomond, has not made satisfactory progress up to date, but work is proceeding there and doubtless the obstructions met will be overcome later. In the meantime local interest continues to center strongly on the different wells and test wells, as the location of a real oil field in the vicinity would mean much to everyone with interests in the district.

The appeals of the Wheat Pool for loyalty on the part of members draws attention to the peculiarity of members of farm organizations which has always made it difficult for these to function successfully. A farmer will join the Pool, pay the withdrawals from the price realized for elevators and terminals cheerfully, extol the Pool and all its works at every opportunity, and then deliberately sell part of his wheat to outside concerns. While this is fortunately not general among Pool members, it is still common enough to cause wonder among outsiders and frequently keeps individuals from joining who would otherwise be inclined to join forces with the co-operative dealers. The same thing applied to farmer owned elevators. Often the most prominent shareholder in one of these elevators would sell all his grain to a competing concern for no reason that was apparent to onlookers. There seems to be an element of suspicion in the ranks of the farmers which cannot be eliminated altogether by any ordinary efforts. This is undoubtedly disappearing to some extent but is still enough in evidence to affect any co-operative effort to a considerable extent.

Beginning with the 1928 crop a change which affects everyone has taken place in harvesting methods. This year this change has been emphasized emphatically, and harvest and threshing is nearly over without having appreciatively having effected business in many lines. The combine and the truck are the outstanding factors in decreasing the number of men used and also in speeding up the harvest movement. The crop this year is lighter in volume of straw, particularly, than that of a year ago, but had the whole crop been handled in the old style of binding, stacking and threshing there would have been up to two hundred more men employed and deliveries of grain would have proceeded far into the winter. Now the four-horse team is almost a thing of the past, and even from long distances grain is delivered to the elevator from the machine as it is threshed. The cost of harvesting and hauling, too, has been cut down to almost the vanishing point as compared to horse drawn wheat, the principal difference to the farmer being that where he does not own his own truck he is paying cash for an operation he used to do himself at a period of the year when he had not much else to do. The new process, however, is very much more comfortable and expeditious, and is perhaps the greatest factor in a change which is affecting merchants and working men to a remarkable extent. It would appear that more money will be left in the district in the new order of things if too much does not have to go to the machinery and truck manufacturers and gas and oil dispensers.

For the past ten years or more a crop of potatoes would have been more profitable than wheat. In nearly every year potatoes have reached a price at which they would be highly profitable to the producer. While there is not likely to be a rush to this branch of agriculture in this section, it is a pity that importations should be so constant as has been the case. Naturally the little patches put in on the farms are usually late and receive little attention. This year the drought and frost has almost eliminated the crop with the result that even now potatoes are being sold at almost famine prices.

The great war is so far away that it seems strange to read that evacuation of the Rhine area by British troops has begun. Germany must be grateful indeed that the foreign troops are leaving her soil.

Wheat Market Is Reviewed

The heavy movement to market of the American winter wheat crop, in conjunction with reports of unfavorable conditions in some of the more important wheat-exporting countries, produced marked fluctuations in the price of wheat during the past month. The prospects for the Canadian crop are described elsewhere in this Letter; the August 1st estimate of the United States crop was placed at 774 million bushels, as compared with 902 million last year; moisture conditions in Argentina and a large part of Australia, which suffered from lack of rain during June and July, have recently been more favorable and have improved crop prospects. Conditions generally continue to favor a good crop in western Europe, but an out-turn smaller than in 1928 is expected from the Danube basin. A world crop of 339 million bushels in 1929-30 is indicated by conditions to date in the reporting countries. This represents a decrease of about 500 million bushels from the record crop of last year and a world supply, including carry-over, of less than 4000 million bushels. So far the situation this year has been somewhat similar to that in 1924-25, when the world crop of 303 million bushels was 400 million less than that in 1923, and prices have followed much the same course in the last month or two as in the first part of the 1924-25 wheat year: Unless there is a marked change in present conditions affecting the prospective world supply, prices may reasonably be expected to move in much the same direction as in the fall of 1924, when following a decline in September, there was a fairly sharp rise. The principal factor which will determine future prices is the outlook during the next month or two in Australia and Argentina. The European food grain situation promises considerable improvement over that of last year; a fairly large increase in both barley and oats has been forecast, and reports from south-eastern Europe indicate a favorable outlook for corn. On this continent, however, the prolonged drought in the grain-growing areas precludes the possibility of any but subnormal crops, and were it not for the large carryover the feed shortage would assume serious proportions. The United States is expected to harvest a corn crop of 2700 million bushels, as compared with 2836 million last year and a five-year average of 2747 million bushels. "In Selling Position"

Alberta Wheat Pool members should appreciate what it means to the Central Selling Agency to have Pool wheat in "a selling position."

To make the best sales Pool wheat should be in a position where it is instantly available, and where long and troublesome delays are not incurred.

When Pool wheat is in Pool elevators the Selling Agency can depend upon it being directed wherever it is wanted. For that reason, if for no other, Pool wheat should be delivered to Pool elevators.

Besides this, Pool elevators give Pool members an assurance of fair treatment to an extent never known in the days when there was no Wheat Pool.

You can best aid your Selling Agency and your own elevator system by delivering your wheat to Pool elevators.

On Wednesday afternoon the home of Mrs. K. K. Newinger was the scene of a surprise party and miscellaneous shower held in honor of Mrs. E. Yardley, formerly Miss Belle Selland.

The tea table was tastefully decorated with streamers of mauve and pink and vases of sweet peas in corresponding colors. Tea was served by Mrs. K. K. Newinger and Mrs. F. Galloway, assisted by Mrs. H. Clover, Mrs. B. Bevan pouring tea.

Miss Margaret Brosse and Murray Currol carried in the gifts in a gaily decorated basket.

Those present were Mrs. B. Bevan, Mrs. H. Clover, Mrs. A. Flett, Mrs. P. Yardley, Mrs. H. Prosser, Mrs. Fox, Miss Juliette Denegri, Miss Charlotte Schack, Mrs. Green, Mrs. England, Mrs. Wade, Mrs. W. Pritchard, Miss Margaret Prosser, Murray Currol.

Opening Dance Date

Friday, Sept. 27th

Friday evening, Sept. 27th, is the date selected for the opening of the season in the Community Hall, and it will undoubtedly be one of the most largely attended events of the kind held here for some time. The Len Davis orchestra will provide the music, a guarantee in itself that nothing will be left to be hoped for in this direction. The committee in charge are leaving no stone unturned to assure everyone who attends of a real evening's enjoyment. Don't fail to be there.

The wheat yields being reported from all parts of the district are highly satisfactory, especially when weather conditions for some six weeks prior to the beginning of harvest is considered, in fact it is simply wonderful how the crop filled so satisfactorily under circumstances so apparently unfavorable. It is safe to say that in no other country in the world could the same thing happen.

The desire to move to town for the winter is becoming so general in this vicinity that the matter of securing house room is becoming quite a problem. It is naturally difficult to secure investment in buildings that will be occupied for but six months in the year, particularly of a class that would be a credit to the town, so that the problem of providing themselves with a winter residence seems to be up to the farmers who would move to town. A cottage at Banff or Waterton for the summer and a winter residence in Champion would be only fair building equipment for existing prosperity in rural districts to achieve.

Local and General

(Held over from last week.)

Miss Ella Thom of Calgary was the guest of Mrs. H. C. Jopling over the week end.

W. C. Hoskins left for Calgary on Friday, where he will meet Mrs. Hoskins and Miss Helen, who are returning from a two weeks' holiday spent in Vancouver and Victoria.

Duane Chamberlain has gone to Turner Valley, where he expects to spend the winter. Mrs. Chamberlain will join him at a later date.

The new community hall is now ready for the stucco, lathing having been completed. While the building has been highly creditable in its unfinished condition its completion on the exterior will make a big change which will be appreciated by those passing through town who do not have the opportunity to see the interior of the building.

Pool members should realize that it is a matter of very great importance for the Selling Agency to have Pool wheat readily available at all times. When Pool wheat is delivered to Pool elevators it is always available to the Selling Agency.

He has just been presented with several drafts which he has no money to pay and he has been going through his books to see what is the matter. Naturally, his language is unprintable.

This season has been above the average in farm profits; harvest is almost completed and much of the produce sold at unusually good prices.

Isn't the time opportune to square up with the business man and give him a chance to meet his obligations?

The Progress of Little Things

In these modern days when it is "the thing" to boast about the bigness of one's mind, and when countries and cities lay claim to the possession of the biggest of something or other, we are apt to forget how many of these "big" things were brought about, and to lose sight of the essential fact that anything "big" is in reality only a collection or combination of many very small things.

Nowadays not so much stress is laid upon old sayings of a couple of generations ago, such, for example, as "Mighty oaks from little acorns grow;" nor do we stop to contemplate that this globe on which we live is after all made up of "little drops of water, little grains of sand."

It would be better for everyone of us if we gave greater heed and attached their real importance to the little things of everyday life. The wealth of the multimillionaire is, after all, only an unusually large accumulation of pennies, and some of the very rich men of the world hold the foundation of their wealth by careful saving of their pennies. The hundreds of millions of bushels of Marquis wheat harvested in Canada every year is the result of one little kernel developed by Dr. Saunders.

The investment of a very few dollars by the parents of a baby at the time of its birth, if left to accumulate at compound interest throughout the years of its minority, would mean a very substantial sum of money upon which to commence a career in the world by the time the child became of age.

These thoughts come to us when reading a recent article about Trinity Church, in New York City. This church, which stands at the head of Wall Street, the centre of New York's financial district, began its career 233 years ago on a precarious income derived from the fish and dead whales cast up by the sea along the shore where one of the world's largest cities now stands. Today Trinity Church Corporation is one of the largest holders of real estate in the city, owning $15,000,000 of revenue producing real estate, bringing into the church coffers almost $1,000,000 a year. For do these large figures include the value of the property upon which Trinity Church still stands, the equivalent of two square blocks in the heart of the financial district, and considerable tracts of land elsewhere.

The tremendous wealth of Trinity, we read in the Wall Street Journal, would appear fantastic to the organizers of this church in 1686, when King William III. made the original grant of land to the parish, supplementing 20 years later by a further grant from Queen Anne. In those days the value of a particular value, Wall Street was non-existent, and Fifth Avenue not even a foot path. But Manhattan Island was destined for great wealth, and the worthless property of a little over 200 years ago is worth many millions today.

Historical records contain efforts to obtain funds to start the church, which appear incredible when contrasted with present day values. One aid to the building of the original church in 1686 was a patent issued by the Governor of New York. It permitted vestrymen to seize all drift whales, or anything else driven by the sea onto land, and for which there was no owner. It further directed that the whales be towed ashore, fried, and proceeds used for a building fund.

The lesson of this interesting bit of history is this: Today there are thousands of young people just starting out in life. They have little or nothing. With them it is indeed a day of small things, and so they look around them and see so many huge undertakings, great enterprises, and the speed of the modern world, they are inclined to be discouraged, and become obsessed with the false idea that there is no opportunity for them.

But opportunities exist today as never before. There are a thousand today where there was but one two hundred years ago. The beginning must be small now, as it was then, but the opportunity is there just the same, while the possibilities and probabilities of growth are many times more rapid now.

Tackle the small thing at once; save the small things, the pennies; watch for and embrace your opportunities; conserve those things which come to you. The bigger things, the rewards of work and of service to your fellowmen will follow in due course.

Story Of Privation

Tragic Case Of Two Boys Lost In Woods Of Northern Quebec

How 12-year-old Michael Courtis remained for nearly two months beside the body of his brother, René, 19, dead from hunger and privation in the woods, and how the two of them had wandered for miles, famished and helpless, was disclosed at Roberval, Quebec, at the inquest into the death of René Courtis, found dead in the woods of northern Quebec, after having been missing since August, 1923.

Roots, berries and fish bones furnished slender means of livelihood a time, young Michael told the coroner's jury. They were four hundred and fifty miles from Roberval, the nearest outpost of civilization. Having but two matches, they kept a fire burning in a pall for two months. When the weather found them, the fire was still smouldering but René Courtis was dead.

Michael had almost completely lost his reason when, because he is now completely restored, though he is a physical wreck.

The coroner's jury returned a verdict, "death by starvation and misery."

FEELING WORN OUT

When the Blood Becomes Watery a Breakdown Follows

How many girls and women suffer from headaches, pain in the back of the neck, poor appetite, nervousness and a constant feeling of weariness and exhaustion of the heart at the least exertion. Of course, all these symptoms are not present in any one case, but they do often show that the blood has become thin and watery, and good health can be restored by enriching the blood. This should be done by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People is a blood tonic which I have taken for many years, and it has given me the best results, and so decided to try them again. I feel much better, but I continued taking the pills for several months, by which time I could walk for miles with little effort. I do all my own housework, and for four children, so you will see what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for me.

You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail, post paid, at 50c a box from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Springfield, Mass.

Lord Queensborough Impressed With Mining Possibilities Here

Completing a tour of Canada, Lord Queensborough, chairman of the London Advisory Board of Canadian Securities, landed in Toronto that he was much impressed with the mineral development going forward in the Dominion. "I had no idea," he said, "of the immense mineral wealth of Canada until I went through northern Ontario, Manitoba and British Columbia."

Lord Queensborough declared his report on investment opportunities in the Dominion undoubtedly would be favorable.

Relief Of Unemployment

Manitoba To Provide Public Works For The Winter Months

$725,000 construction program to be carried out in Manitoba during the coming winter was announced by Premier John Bracken, as a means of relieving the unemployment situation. At the same time, action was taken to have the Dominion Government and cities and towns in the province work a similar course with respect to any undertakings they might have in view.

The work to be done will include construction of a new unit at the Selkirk Mental Hospital, at a cost of $225,000, building of the first section of the trans-Canada highway east from Whitecourt towards the Ontario boundary, at a cost of $200,000; and completion of the new provincial jail near Headingley, at a cost of $300,000. Appropriations for the works were passed by the legislature at its last session.

Highway To The North

Stefanowicz Favors Road From The Pas To Northern Points

Returning from a trip to Churchill, Dr. V. Stefanowicz, famous explorer, declared he stood ready to give all he aid he could in the attempt to have a highway connecting The Pas and northern points with the roads of the continent.

Enlisting himself as an advocate of a highway to the north, the famous explorer declared that it would be "another step in the opening of the north, a logical advance of civilization into the new northern empire and another blow to the prejudice that the north is disagreeable and worthless." He declared that a road into the northern country would "add ten-fold to Western Canada's attractions as a tourist haven."

It is usually safe to say that when a child is pale, sickly, peevish and restless, the cause is worms. These parasites mangle the stomach and intestines, causing serious disorders of the digestion and prevent the child from deriving sustenance from food. Miller's Worm Powders, by destroying the worms, correct these faults of the digestion and serve to restore the organs to healthy action.

The Singing Fool

SYNOPSIS
Al Stone, the singing waiter and song writer at Blackie Goy's New York night club, is discovered by Marcus, the famous Broadway revue producer. Al insists on helping Molly, the ballet dancer, who loves him, but she loves her. Molly marries him, not loving him, and he pulls her up the ladder of fame. Meanwhile, Grace, the cigarette girl at Blackie's, who loved Al, is now knowing it, is left behind. Molly has a baby. After her return to the stage her romantic interest in John Perry, Al's best friend, is revived. Al becomes part owner and director of ceremonies at the fashionable club. On the third anniversary of their marriage he slips a jewel case under a napkin on her reserved table. Molly is in her limousine when John Perry on his way to the club. He greets with her to throw out Al for him and suddenly kisses her.

CHAPTER XIII.

Brimming over with affection, Al greeted Molly as she entered the Dimple Club. Then he turned to Perry and said wholeheartedly:

"Awfully good of you, old man, to take care of Molly while I'm working."

Perry had turned away to see if any vestiges of Molly's face powder still remained on her coat. Satisfied that he was safe, he turned his coat, hat and stick over to a check girl and acknowledged Al's thanks with an appearance of sincere cordiality.

They passed into the main dining room. Al leading the way. As they moved toward the reserved table, he bickered and contrasting thoughts flickered through Molly's mind. What a strange whirlpool of emotions had sucked her down the night light, caring kiss that Al had given her in greeting still on her lips, but behind it, and much more intense, was the recollection of John Perry's embrace.

Now Molly and John Perry were seated at the table, while Al remained standing, watching his wife with intense curiosity. Why did he do that, she thought. Did he suspect something?

Al was waiting for her to lift her napkin. When she leaned back in her chair and made no move to do so, he patted her on the shoulder and patted himself definitely for her to look under the tiny square. Molly raised the napkin, saw the jewel case and card, and gave a cry of delight.

"Oh Al, this is wonderful of you!" With eyes sparkling she tenderly

With that, Al suddenly slipped his arms about Molly, drew her close and kissed her. The roar of applause was deafening, twice the volume Molly received by herself. As she stood, with Al's arms around her waist, bowing again and again, there were instant cries from the crowd that she give them a song. Molly nodded amiably.

Will you sing for them, honey?"

"Yes, I don't mind."

Al tucked his arm comfortably under Molly's and led her toward the orchestra platform. The crowd waited silently, giving her every attention. At the table she had left, John Al. "You know you want to be with my every moment I can. But, after all, I'm master of ceremonies."

"That was splendid, Molly! I never heard you in better voice. You held them in the hollow of your hand."

"Thank you, John," said Molly quickly, but with pretended indifference.

She turned to turn to Al: "Can't you sing a song and sing with us a while. Must you always be circulating around the customers?"

"I'll be back in a moment," whispered Al. "You know you want to be with my every moment I can. But, after all, I'm master of ceremonies."

Molly shrugged her shoulders as he moved off. She had made her play for him to stay, but she was pleased he had gone off. Now she could talk to John.

"And you say you need him?" came Perry's whispered exclamation across the table.

"What do you mean?"

"Well, you heard the applause you got. You don't need him at all."

"Sh!" Molly drummed on the table-top without further words. The pink, polished nails of her white, beaded fingers went up and down with incredible rapidity. Too many rings on those slim fingers, too many glittering gems to be in the best of taste! How stridently they proclaimed her wealth and success! Molly glanced down at the brooch Al had just given her, as it reposed against the satin bodice of her gown. A few days before she had mentioned casually that she wanted a new brooch. Now—present!—it was here!

But now, a few moments after Al had given it to her, it became just another costly ornament to add to her rich collection; and the significance of the gift was lost on her.

A hot hour passed, and Al returned to the table. Another half hour, and John Perry rose to go.

"Fare you well," John answered, as he was the one who thought of caution; he wished she wouldn't show her feelings so plainly before Al.

"Why?" she insisted, "I thought you'd run home with us for a while."

"Well, it's late for one thing. Besides, Molly, this is your night. I know you and Al want some time alone together."

Perry spoke with the utmost gravity. But Molly thought she detected a sardonic gleam in his alert eyes. He was making fun of Al, and of her, too! For a moment she hated him for it. . . . But a moment later, when Perry had gone, she hated Al for creating the situation. Her thoughts, which had been bewildered, turned bitter. Anniversary indeed!

The Rolls-Royce sped rapidly toward home, with Molly keeping silent the whole way. Al, believed she was tired, remained mum, too, out of deference to her mood. When they entered the reception hall of the apartment Molly curiously dimly remembered the lovely picture Junior made, his mass of curls framing his delicate young face, his woolly dog nestled beside him on the pillow.

As Molly entered she was struck by the scene. The expression on Al's face told more plainly than words his complete love and utter devotion to Junior. Traveling Libraries

1,250 Traveling Libraries in Circulation at Saskatchewan

Many applications are received by the Saskatchewan Bureau of Publications for travelling libraries, which are supplied to rural areas.

The library consists of a stout wooden box about 10 inches deep and 20 to 30 inches wide, which holds from 10 to 500 books. When the necessary application form has been filled in and forwarded to the department, usually a responsible citizen on behalf of a community organization, a library is sent by express charges paid. When all the books have been read by the residents of the district the library is returned.

The Government pays the charges one way, and the reader pays the return charges. At the present time there are 62,000 books available and 1,250 travelling libraries are in circulation.

Organization To Unite Under One Banner Proposed In St. Paul

Thousands of Canadian and United States soldiers who lost arms or legs on the battle fields of France, began through representatives at the veterans of foreign wars annual convention in St. Paul, movements toward formation of an international "Amputation Club."

Robert Burns, of Winnipeg, who lost his right arm in the world war, and who is the head of a Canadian "amputee" club of more than 1,000 members, declared that such an organization "might prevent the world from forgetting us."

"We were every Canadian, American, English, French and other allied soldier who lost an arm, leg or eye on the battle fields of France, and we were every Canadian, American, English, French and other allied soldier who lost an arm, leg or eye on the battle fields of France, and we were every Canadian, American, English, French and other allied soldier who lost an arm, leg or eye on the battle fields of France

ISLAND COLONY FOR DOUKHOBORS IS NOW PROPOSED

Victoria. — Fantastic Doukhobors from all over Western Canada, including those who have been making trouble in interior British Columbia, will be placed in a prison colony, probably on Barclay Island, in the Gulf of Georgia, between the mainland of British Columbia and Vancouver Island, if the Federal Government accepts plans laid before it by the Provincial Government.

The scheme, it was revealed, has been placed before Hon. J. R. King, Federal Minister of Health. He will discuss the matter with his colleagues on his return to Ottawa.

The proposal that Doukhobors who refuse to obey Canadian laws be removed to a colony by themselves, and that they will have to co-exist with law-abiding members of their sect, is advanced by the Provincial Government in the belief that the whole Doukhobor problem is in this issue. The Doukhobors, it is explained, were brought here under contract by the Federal Government.

As Doukhobors do exist in Alberta and Saskatchewan, as well as in British Columbia, no single Provincial Government, it is pointed out, can adequately deal with them.

Darby Island is suggested as a suitable place for the proposed colony, because it is isolated and escape from it is almost impossible.

The Provincial authorities feel that the fanatical members of the Russian sect should not be placed permanently in a penitentiary. Some stringent form of imprisonment, it is thought, is desired to keep the sect or some similar place they would be allowed comparative liberty, and would be able to engage in agriculture. After being there for a time it is hoped they would agree to embrace Canadian customs.

Find Lost Aviator

Rescued in Northern Manitoba After Wandering in Bush for 16 Days

The Pac. Mail. After wandering 16 days in the wilds of northern Manitoba, during which time an intense search by air and land was made for him, P. C. Meers, young aviator, was discovered by W. Partidge, airman, some 30 miles west of Oxford House, just when searchers had virtually abandoned hope of finding him.

Meers is little the worse for his experience. He is somewhat the worse for the cold, but he has no serious ailment, having lived principally on berries, which are plentiful in the north this season, and he expressed confidence that he could have made his way to Oxford House. But Partidge picked him up. His clothes were in tatters as a result of scrambling through the brush.

The youthful flier, who is a pilot for the Northern Alberta Mineral Exploration Company, was last seen August 24, when forced to land near Kneke Lake owing to lack of fuel. He remained with his machine for two days, hoping that a passing party would be able to spot him from the air and come to his assistance.

When and did not arrive Meers decided to set out for Oxford House. 70 miles as the crow flies from the place where he landed. The bush, however, is very thick throughout the territory and the country is dotted with lakes, making travel by foot extremely hard. It is estimated that he walked over a hundred miles in attempting to reach his goal.

Meantime planes were sent out to hunt for him and Indian trackers took up his trail, being guided by occasional foot-tracks and plucked berry bushes. When Meers was found the Indians were only 12 miles behind him, and probably would have found him in two days' time if he had not been seen from the air.

Makes Important Discovery

Young Scientists Startle American Chemical Society With Demonstration

Minneapolis.—The splitting of a supposedly indivisible element, hydrogen gas, in two substances, was demonstrated to the American Chemical Society here. The discovery was called the "greatest scientific discovery of 1929," by Dr. Hugh S. Taylor, of Princeton University, chairman of the session.

Dr. R. P. Bothroff, a young German, who was a 17-year-old intern in the first-line trenches at the close of the world war, is the discoverer.

Dramatically he set his proof before the eyes of the chemist in a spot of light upon the wall of a University of Minnesota lecture room. Laid a moving finger it wrote the forecast of a revolution in physical chemistry. This revolution was described enthusiastically by Dr. Taylor.

"It opens the way to finding an entirely new species of molecule. It is the first proof of something far out mathematically by the new wave mechanics. It means that our texts on physical chemistry will have to be rewritten from top to bottom."

The discovery has no present commercial use, but the new world in chemistry it seems to open is very important.

Forecast Dominion Election

Hon. Robt. Forke Says Elections May Be Held Within a Year

Winnipeg.—Within 15 months—and probably within a year—a Dominion election will be held, was the declaration of the Hon. Minister of Immigration, speaking before the Winnipeg Liberal Association here. The Dominion minister declared that the Liberal party would make gains in the Maritimes, Manitoba, he said, would be the keystone province.

"Why pay people to come to this country?" asked Mr. Forke. "Canada is a good enough country for people to come to of their own volition."

The matter of assisted passages required very serious consideration, the minister commenting that he intended to cut some of the assisted immigration afforded in the past. No immigrant who pretends his own passage has been deported, Mr. Forke pointed out, but all discontented immigrants back to Britain would have come out under the assisted passage plan. "I still believe that there is room for everybody in Canada, but we want them to come here only when we can absorb them," he declared.

Jury Makes Recommendation

Unable To Establish Origin Of Fatal Winnipeg Fire

Winnipeg.—Stating that it was unable to establish the origin of the fire that destroyed Hotel Winnipeg Court on September 1, with the loss of nine lives and more or less serious injuries to 30 persons, a coroner's jury which has investigated the disaster has expressed the opinion that the building was not adequately equipped with means of escape in case of fire.

The jury recommends that proper authorities forthwith have a thorough investigation made of all buildings of three stories or more used as residences by three experts, including the fire chief, to secure their unbiased opinions and make recommendations for more adequate protection when necessary of occupants in case of fire.

Soviets To Stay Out

Will Not Participate In Plans For An Economic United Europe

London, Eng.—An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Riga states that the Russian foreign commissariat had declared the Soviet Union did not intend to participate in plans formulated at Geneva for an "economic united states of Europe."

The dispatch said the Soviet opposed schemes "tending to estrange Europe from America" and desires to remain neutral in the forthcoming economic struggle between the two continents.

STATE CONTROL SUGGESTED FOR BROADCASTING

Ottawa. — Radio-broadcasting in Canada should be controlled and operated by a government-owned company, said the report of the chief recommendation of the royal commission which presented its report to Hon. P. J. C. Carlin, minister of marine and fisheries.

The company would have some similar relations to the Dominion Government as the Canadian National Railways has, but would be distinct from that organization. It would have 12 members, three representing more particularly the Dominion Government, and one representing each of the provincial governments. The members of the commission were Sir John Aird, Toronto chairman; Charles A. Bowman, Ottawa, and Dr. Augustin Prignon, Montreal.

The recommendations provide that the task of supplying the program would fall upon the provincial representatives of the commission.

The present owners of broadcasting stations would be reasonably recompensed when their plants are taken over or dismantled. The expenditure necessary for the operation and maintenance of the service should be met by license fees, rental of time on stations for programs employing indirect advertising and a subsidy from the Dominion Government.

High-power stations should be erected across Canada. As a nucleus to the centrally-located service, 50,000-watt stations should be provided to give a good reception over the entire settled portions of the Dominion.

In making public the report, Mr. Carlin said he was well satisfied with the commissioners and their work.

The report will be submitted first to the technical officers of the department. Later it will go before the cabinet. To put the recommendations into effect would necessitate important legislation.

Saskatchewan By-Elections

Dates Have Been Set For October 7 and 14

Regina, Sask.—Fixing of the dates of eight by-elections made necessary by the election of certain private members of the Saskatchewan Legislature to cabinet positions, calling of the first regular session of the legislature by the new government shortly after the first of next year, and decision to hold a provincial-wide Liberal convention next spring, are the three developments of the political situation in Saskatchewan.

Premier J. T. M. Anderson announced during the day the dates of the by-elections, stated the regular session of the legislature would not likely be called until after the first of the year. George Spence, in charge of the organization department of the Saskatchewan Liberal Association, made the announcement of the intention to hold a provincial-wide convention in the late winter or early spring.

The dates of the by-elections are as follows: Regina, Moose Jaw, Saskatoon and Lumsden, nominations on September 20, elections on October 7. Tisdale, Moosomin and Yorkton, nominations on October 7, elections on October 14.

Combination Trousers and Skirt Suggested For Universal Use

London, Eng.—The dress reform movement broke into the congress of the World League for sex reform in a scientific basis when a combination of trousers and skirt was suggested for universal use.

Dr. J. C. Lagel, of England, addressing the delegates of 11 countries, said that men possibly will adopt skirts and women trousers in the future, or more likely there will be a uniform combination for both sexes. He urged creation of a new mode of dress which would incorporate the advantages for both.

Send Message To His Majesty

Business Men Meeting in Edmonton Send a Message Of Greeting

Edmonton.—A message of greeting from the 300 business men from all provinces, and representatives of five of the leading chambers of commerce of Great Britain, together with the Mayor of London, was sent to King George at the opening of the fourth annual convention of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce. The message, signed by the president, William H. Kirk, conveyed to His Majesty the rejoicing of the convention over the improvement in his health.

Messages of greeting from the Governor-General, Rt. Hon. Ramsay MacDonald, prime minister of Great Britain; Rt. Hon. W. L. Macdonnell, prime minister of Canada; Lord Painsford, secretary of state for the dominions; Lord D'Arcy, president of the Federation of Chambers of Commerce of the British Empire; and the premiers of various Canadian provinces, were read.

"It is the very earnest and confident hope of myself and of all my colleagues that the remarkable progress of Canada may continue at a rapid rate; and that the free, happy and mutually advantageous relations which unite her with Great Britain may be strengthened," said the prime minister of Great Britain in his message.

International Balloon Race

Ten Entries For The Gordon Bennett Event To Be Held Soon

St. Louis, Mo.—Ten balloons, representing the United States, France, Germany, Belgium, Denmark and the Argentine, will start away from St. Louis, September 28, in quest of the international Gordon Bennett trophy. It will be the eighth of the series of international balloon races and the third to start from St. Louis. Seven of the races have been won by the United States and five by Belgium, which gained permanent possession of the original Gordon Bennett trophy with its third straight victory in 1924.

The United States became permanent possessor of the second trophy with its victory in 1926. Twenty-eight Now the third of the Gordon Bennett trophies is up, with three U.S. men seeking to gain the first leg of it.

LABOR PARTY WINS APPROVAL OF THE PEOPLE

London, Eng.—With Communist entanglements completely severed, the Labor party conference opening in Brighton, at the end of the month, is expected to devote the bulk of its attention to overdue reforms with the object of bringing the party into line with modern necessities.

The executive's report proclaimed that the Labor Government had been the people's imagination. Events are being shaped with a vigor and spirit that is refreshing, it says, after the inertia of the past four years.

Answering the Liberal demand for electoral reform, the report says this change never was heard when the Labor party was struggling for existence.

The inflated membership of the party dropped from 3,200,000 in 1927, to 2,077,000 last year, largely due, the report says, to difficulties arising from the Trade Union Act which compelled civil service organizations to discontinue affiliation while in many instances the members were securing the contracting of party supporters had not yet been established.

Premier's Western Trip

Depends Largely On The Plans of Ramsay Macdonald

Ottawa, Ont.—The western trip of Premier Mackenzie King this fall depends a good deal on the plans of Premier Ramsey Macdonald, of Great Britain. Premier King plans that if Premier Macdonald visited Washington, he (Mr. Macdonald) would come to Ottawa at the conclusion of his visit. If the British prime minister came to Ottawa, Mr. King said he wanted to be here to receive him and discuss certain matters of interest to Canada and Great Britain. He expects that if Mr. Macdonald crosses the ocean it will be the end of this month, or early in October. Mr. King will not go to Washington. He regards Mr. Macdonald as a man of great importance between the president and the premier of Great Britain.

ANGLO-AMERICAN NAVAL ACCORD EXPECTED SOON

London, Eng.—Official announcement that Premier Ramsey MacDonald would sail on September 28, for the United States to visit President Hoover, was hailed here as definite evidence that the two governments had virtually reached an agreement upon naval disarmament.

Well-informed circles indicated that a question involving three cruisers of the eighth class is the only point upon which full accord has not been reached.

The developments came swiftly after a conference between Mr. MacDonald and Charles G. Dawes, United States Ambassador. Just previous to this conference, announced that the premiers of the United States' answer to the latest British proposals had been received in London. It is assumed that the two governments carried this answer to No. 10 Downing Street, where he called on the Premier.

The two were closeted for an hour. The official date for Mr. MacDonald's sailing was announced immediately after the meeting. It was just such "conversations" as this which have marked the discussions since the Ambassador dined from a steamer which carried him to England and had his initial meeting with Mr. MacDonald at the Admiralty.

On August 28, the date of the preliminary conclusions had been reached which were tentatively submitted to the British Government. The answer from the United States capital completed what many believed was the most important step for agreement.

Maintain Palestine Mandate

Great Britain Will Not Depart From Present Policy

London, Eng.—Lord Painsford, Secretary of State for the Colonies, informed a deputation of Jews representing the Jewish agency and the Zionists, that there could be "no question of the British Government giving up the mandate for Palestine, or departing from the policy embodied in the Balfour Declaration of establishing in Palestine a national home for the Jewish people."

The Palestine-Arab executive in a note issued by its chairman, denied rumors prevalent among Moslems in northern Palestine to the effect that Jews had damaged the mosque of Wicket, Jerusalem, district farmer. The police called upon all Arabs to keep the peace.
